

TIPS

- 1. Wohnsiedlung Fennpfuhl | Built in 1961, the first "type P2" pre-fab apartment complex served as GDR experiment and model, and today stands under landmark protection | Erich-Kuttner-Straße 9-15
- 2. Zunfthalle | The old cattle auction hall is meant to be divided up and used for top notch purposes | August-Lindemann-Straße / Neue Welt
- 3. Hammelauctionshalle | The old auction hall's steel skeleton was renovated with assistance from the German landmark protection foundation, making the new park around it an experience of spatiality | Hermann-Blankenstein-Park
- 4. Frischeparadies Lindemann | A gastronomic cornucopia (and an architecturally ambitious new delicatessen with bistro) | Hermann-Blankenstein-Straße 4,8
- 5. Sporthalle Hausburgviertel | Worth-seeing example of a successful and public reuse of a former cattle hall | Hausburgstraße 20
- 6. Abenteuerspielplatz | Since 1993, an establishment of open-minded hands-on work with children and adolescents (and currently in resistance to the privatization encroaching from all sides) | Forckenbeckplatz
- 7. Nahversorgungszentrum | Here is one of the neighborhood's smart moves: retail stores in remodeled sheep stalls | Eldenaer Straße 34-36
- 8. Samariterkirche | Center of the independent peace movement in the GDR and stronghold of the older neighborhood south of the slaughterhouse, located in the middle of the Bänschstraße promenade | Samariterstraße 27
- 9. Archiv Grünes Gedächtnis | The archive of the Heinrich Böll Foundation collects diverse sources on the history of "new social movements" and its associated political party | Eldenaer Straße 35
- 10. Sporthalle am Anton-Saefkow-Platz | Top-class sports away from the big arenas | Anton-Saefkow-Platz 4
- 11. Avila-Carré | Backing the current biggest construction project in the new neighborhood is no corporate giant, but rather Petruswerk – a Catholic housing and land settlement society | Thaeerstraße / Otto-Ostrowski-Straße

STORKOWER STRASSE

The bellows of animals have long been subdued, the stench of blood has drifted away. Only the naked steel frame of the major Berlin slaughterhouse remains today, now integrated in an extraordinary park.

THE PROJECT

www.ringbahn.com takes a new look at the past and present of Berlin's Ringbahn, shedding light on technical, architectural, and everyday aspects. For those in the know, but especially for those just getting on board!
